INTRODUCTION

Why do we talk about the future?

- To make predictions
- To describe plans
- To talk about schedules
- To imagine future results

Structure

Subject + will + base verb

Examples

- I will call you later.
- She will not come to the meeting.
- Will they win the match?

Uses

- Predictions
- Promises
- Decisions made at the moment

Future simple

We use "will" to talk about things that we believe will happen in the future. It is also used for promises, offers, and decisions we make at the moment of speaking. The verb stays in its base form, and the subject can be I, you, he, she, we, they.

Structure

Subject + am/is/are + going to + base verb

Examples

- I'm going to visit my grandma.
- She isn't going to attend the class.
- Are you going to study medicine?

Use

- Intentions or personal plans

Be going to

We use "be going to" to talk about future plans or intentions—things we have already decided to do. It shows that the decision was made before the moment of speaking. The verb that follows is in the base form. Make sure to use the correct form of the verb "to be" (am, is, are) depending on the subject.

Structure

Subject + am/is/are + verb -ing + time expression

Examples

- I'm meeting my friend tomorrow.
- She isn't working next weekend.
- Are they coming to the party?

Use

- Fixed arrangements

Present continuous for future

We use the present continuous to talk about future plans or arrangements that are already confirmed. These are usually events that have been organised in advance, like meetings, appointments, or trips.

Make sure to use the correct form of the verb "to be" (am, is, are) followed by the -ing form of the main verb.

Future perfect

We use the future perfect to talk about actions that will be completed before a specific time in the future. It helps us imagine a future moment and look back at what will already be finished by then. We often use "by" or "before" with a future time expression (e.g. by Friday, before noon).

Structure

Subject + will have + past participle

Examples

- I will have finished my work by 5 PM.
- She will not have arrived before noon.
- Will you have graduated by 2026?

Uses

- Actions completed before a time in the future

Summary table

Form	Example	Use

The background is a solid blue color. Overlaid on this are several faint, light-blue geometric patterns. These include a grid of small squares that form larger, irregular shapes, and numerous small, light-blue arrows pointing in various directions. The overall effect is a sense of movement and digital connectivity.
